

Gabriel D. Korponay C1821-

July 30, 1844, New York, Mr. Gabriel D. Korponay, a Hungarian, who had lately arrived here for the purpose of teaching us the polka, went to Saratoga, N. Y., where he was received by the young with much "éclat"; and after a very successful course of teaching he visited Newport and Washington for a like purpose, and successfully.

Bibliography:

- ^B Haswell, Charles Haynes. Reminiscences of An Octogenarian of the City of New York /1816 to 1860/. New York, 1897, p. 413.

M. Jokai's heroine of the = "Lövei fehér asszony" ("The white lady of Lőve") was Julianna Garaszegei Géczy, wife of John Korponay (Thaly K. in "Századok" 1909 Jan.)