

Bagger, Eugene (Szekeres)

newspaperman and writer, born March 21, 1892, Budapest, came to America Feb. 9, 1915. (See: For the heathen are wrong, pp. 193, 370.)

Worked for the Socialist paper: Előre, and the "Szabadság". Author of the vols: ^① Eminent Europeans, ^② Francis Joseph and his autobiography: ^③ "For the heathen are wrong" Boston, 1941, Little-Brown, pp. 370.

Several articles in My Time
1921-1922

Hochm M: Catholic authors
1948, pp. 12-15
portrait

(This work compiled by a Benedictine monk, says that B. now disavows his "Francis Joseph" book as "unsound and unfair" because Austria was always a bulwark of Catholicism)
(Book in Petworth branch)

(He was born a Jew,
converted to Catholicism
when 18)

Eguly's Pal: Mirok I. 1026

In 1948 he wrote a series of syndicalist
articles for the Nat'l Cath Welfare Conference about Portugal almost wholly favorable to the semi-fascist dictatorship
of Salazar

(See: Blanshard, Paul: Communism,
democracy & Catholic power 1951 - P. 215-16)

This article ab. Hungary

my words

feb 25-1923

Romig, Walter (Huck)

