1967
At the Allan Hancock College in Santa Maria, California, we found our host, English professor Howard P.
Jones, plunged in gloom. He was, he told us, already at work on his doctoral dissertation—subject: "Fourteenth Century Love-Vision Poems Involving the Virgin, with Especial Emphasis on the Miracles of the Virgin"—when darned if he didn't discover somebody else was already doing it. That's the trouble, with those popular subjects.
