

1851

In his annual message to Congress in 1851 - fillmore suggested that some thought ought to be given to the manner in which messages should be received, an extraordinary recommendation for a presidential message, when one considers that it concerned private individuals.

Hulseman

the most important documents
(28) historical notes published
New Hampshire Historical Society