

Kossuth

(In New Haven Palladium, Dec. 16-1851)

welcome to the land of freedom. The friends of liberty with warm hearts shall welcome and rejoice to see The hero and the patriot. True his name shall rank with those whose memory in our hearts shall live; whose life each lustre throws on history's page; and each heart shall beat in unison with a heart-felt welcome to the land of Washington.

Yet cheer the inner holy cause; thy loved land shall be free!
While spirits such as thine she owns a slave she'll never be!
Tho' dark and darker grows the night when our moon will come, And thou no more in other lands beam exiled from thy home.
Far down the future when years have passed, I see

Nations the name of K. bles the Champion of Liberty
