

anny K is coming!

(Shoe store adv. in Newark N.J.
Daily Advertiser, Oct 29 - 1851/2)

He comes, he comes! the good, the great K!
Remarkable in deeds! invincible in truth!
He labored, fought and wisely ran away,
To get new strength and fight some other day.
But "Taylor and Noe" will never refuse
Against every toe to make good boots and shoes.
No earthly power shall drive them from the field
While there are feet to clothe and legs to shield!
If times get dull and money & career grows,
They'll labor still for good of human toes,
And nobly fight with tallow wax and thread
To live like men and earn their honest bread.
With judgment, skill and scientific light,
They'll plan each foot with knowledge and delight.
Exactly fit each mother, man and child
And to be burrings coons and blister mild.
If K comes! and wants a man to meet,
He'll find that man, 9 fitzy Mulberry street!
A man to fight, or preach or mend his shoes!
To teach the way of life, and spread good news!
Come Maidens! Men! all who have feet may come!
And Taylor or Noe, you'll find at home.
But remember, when you peer our door
It's Mulberry 59, not less, nor more.
