

Àcs Gedeon

Ar elsi magyarnak iszentseleket Amerikában

1852 március 14. vasárnap

North Reformed Dutch Church,
New York cor of Fulton and William streets

Templom is templomajto Képe, a templom bűtőin. szelvé:

Dewitt, Thomas, D.D., (one of the Ministers of the Collegiate Ref. Dutch Church:)

A discourse, delivered in the North Ref. Dutch Church in the City of N. Y., on the last Sabbath in August, 1856 (N. Y. 1857,
Board of Publ., Ref. Prot. Dutch Church 337 Broadway) P. 100.

Delivered at the dedication of the renovated church, Aug. 1856.

A temple hely John Harpending (Herbendinek) adományára

Templom 100 láb hosszú, 70 láb széles £12,000 or $60,000 cost

Cornerstone laid July 3-1767 by Isaac Roosevelt, elder of the church, chairman of Bldg Committee.

Built by the Congregation of Prot.
Ref. Dutch Church of N.Y.
since familiarly known as the Collegiate Ref Dutch Church.

New York's population at that time about 20,000

Dedication of church May 25-1769.
Service by Archibald Laidlidie, who came to Amer. in 1764.
Formerly pastor of Scotch Church at Flushing, Holland. He was called to be English preacher, in insistence of young people in spite of determined opposition of older people.

In revolut. war, after British took possession of city, people dispersed, since almost all of them were on the side of revolutionists.

The English used the church for hospital and storage, lower part stripped of furniture, walls much defaced, pulpit taken to England.

Exile of citizens lasted seven years. British left NY Nov. 25 - 1783.

Restoration started at once, church opened again Dec. 1784.

Restoration again in 1856

Church is built in Roman style, with a very fine Corinthian doorway.

The church building was demolished in 1875
to give place to business buildings

