P 82 "M" at Madeira 1852

Bettelheim Bernát dr.

(1811 Pozsony, † Sep 9, 1869, Brookfield, Mo) („Miss" passing Punta Tristao, Madeira, P. 81)

Hawks, Francis L.: Narrative of the expedition of an Amer. Squadron to the China Seas and Japan 1852-54.
NY 1857 Appleton, ill.
pp 537

Bettelheim's residence in Lew Chew p. 161
in Napha since May-1846 with wife and children missionary, Hungarian,
a convert from Judaism, who married in England and had for 5 or 6 yrs been resident on the Island, under the association of pious English gentlemen, officers of the British navy, very much however against the inclinations of the Lew Chewans.

Such were his relations with people that he hailed the squadron with delight, excited since 1½ yrs no foreign vessel at Napha „he was almost beside himself with joy"

Kende I. 288-9

ekonyvtar.sk-szeged.hu

P225

officers of Brit. navy formed an assoc. to send miss. to L.C.
Bettelheim a Hungarian physician not in holy orders, but only Layman. Brit. subject, good linguist, great energy of mind,
most indefatigable perseverance,
opposition not from people

people Chinese, with Japanese masters, first mild hints
then persecut. ergo.

1854 nov. 17 Perry left on the „Mississippi"

„ Lexington
„ Mississippi" flagship of Perry
„ Powhatan

SZEGED
4

ekonyvtar.sk-szeged.hu