

+1951

Békessy, Imre March 15

Békessy Imre (u)

writer, publicist, in U.S. April

Born 1887, Budapest, Hungary

Univ. of Budapest and Vienna wrote much about Central European problem. His books: "The Road to German Hegemony" (1933)

"Heroes of Inflation"

"The great Russian dungeon"

"Accursed Love" (novel)

about 50 biographies of world renowned persons

Fought in world war as artillery officer, served 27 months. Directed 5 publications in Vienna, "Die Stunde", "Die Böhme", "Die Rose" and in Budapest "Vigil" daily.

Left Hungary at the outbreak of II world war, to join his son Hans Habe (John Békessy)

who volunteered to serve in the French army and later wrote "A thousand shall fall"

published 1941 by Harcourt, Brace

N.Y. address: 123 W57

(See: Habe, Hans)

hol? Amikor Drey
cv elott eliteltel aval odakaltom a kinek a becsultet kovetett el. Es Or ortelmeket szenved

+1951

Be'kessy, Imre March 15

writer, publicist, in U.S. since April 1940

Born 1887^{1/3}, Budapest, law degree Univ. of Budapest and Vienna. (Is true) wrote much about Central European problem. His books: "The Road to German Hegemony" (1933)
"Heroes of Inflation"
"The great Russian dungeon"
"Accursed Love" (novel)
almost 50 biographies of world renowned persons

Fought in world war as artillery officer, served 27 months. Directed 5 publications in Vienna, "Die Stunde" "Die Buhne", "Die Borse" and in Budapest "Nepi" daily.

Left Hungary at the outbreak of II world war, to join his son Hans Habe (John Be'kessy) who volunteered to serve in the French army and later wrote "A thousand shall fall", published 1941 by Harcourt, Brace.

N.Y. address: 123 W 57

(See: Habe, Hans)