If ever there was a marriage made in heaven, surely it was that of Julia Magyar in the Old Country. Michael and she were a perfect couple. Even when the outbreak of World War I began to claim men for the Hungarian army, the Magyars were lucky enough, with a little help, to escape to America.

All mothers should find a lift of spirit and inspiration in this tender and graphic story. Margaret Fekete-Csovanyos has created a thing of beauty that will delight all readers.

Margaret Fekete-Csovanyos was born in Bridgeport, Connecticut, but at the age of four, her family moved to Fairfield. She began her writing career as the author of movie scenario at the age of fifteen. Since then she has seen wide publication of much poetry, a great deal of which has appeared in anthologies.

Her husband is a physician, to whom she is a medical assistant. They live in East Norwalk, Connecticut, where she works at her writing and grows orchids in her spare time. Presently she serves on the Church Council of the Hungarian Reformed Church of South Norwalk, Conn. and actively participates in patriotic and civic affairs.
